

PHD IN PSYCHOLOGY

Objectives

The main purpose of the PhD program is to provide skills for original research in the field of psychology.

To this end, it provides advanced training for the practice of research, basic and applied, in psychology, through the deepening and extension of theoretical and methodological knowledge of this scientific field.

It is intended that the student become an independent investigator and to apply the skills acquired in courses, in order to produce an high quality original research.

The main outputs are teaching in higher education and advanced research in psychology.

Organization

The UC of the 1st year are: Seminar on Methods and Data Analysis; Specialization Seminar; Seminar of Discussion Research Project. In 2 and 3 years works the Seminar of Research Progress.

Plan of studies

1st year	ECTS	SCIENTÍFIC AREA
Seminar of Discussion Research Project	30	Psychology
Specialization Seminar	20	Psychology
Seminar on Methods and Data Analysis	10	Methods and Data Analysis
2nd year	ECTS	SCIENTÍFIC AREA
Seminar of Research Progress	60	Psychology
3rd year	ECTS	SCIENTÍFIC AREA
Seminar of Research Progress	60	Psychology

Career opportunities

It is intended that the student become an independent investigator and to apply the skills acquired in courses, in order to produce an high quality original research.

The main outputs are teaching in higher education and advanced research in psychology.

Access conditions

Preferably Psychologists, with master degree, but may be admitted candidates with training and/or experience in others scientific areas.

Additional information

Professor Saul Neves de Jesus

<snjesus@ualg.pt>

Universidade do Algarve

Research Centre for Spatial and Organizational Dynamics

Campus de Gambelas – 8005-139 Faro